

Jazzing up the Orchestra

The Charlottesville Symphony at the University of Virginia
Invites fourth and fifth grade students to attend its 2018 Youth Concert
Thursday, October 18, 2018
Old Cabell Hall, University of Virginia
10:00AM and 11:30AM
Narrator: Richelle Claiborne
Actor: Jonah Taylor
Special Guests: The Free Bridge Quintet

Join the Charlottesville Symphony as Music Director Ben Rous leads pieces composed in the symphonic jazz style by Ellington, Stravinsky, Bernstein and Joplin. The Free Bridge Quintet will partner with the orchestra in the performance of a work based on the Caldecott Honor Award-winning book by Rachel Isadora, Ben's Trumpet, composed by local jazz legend John D'earth. Meet the instrument families and 'swing' to jazz as you listen to a full symphonic orchestra performance on Thursday, October 18, 2018 in UVA's historic Old Cabell Hall. Watch for more details and reservation information in early August, and visit our website: www.cvillesymphony.org

Sponsors: The Charlottesville Symphony Society, the McIntire Department of Music at the University of Virginia, the Watterson Foundation, and the Mr. and Mrs. James L. Brown Endowment Fund.
